ANNOUNCEMENTS

DILLON NOT COMING TO POLI'S THIS WEEK.

Mr. Poli telegraphed the local manager in Norwich that it would be impossible to arrange to have Dillon play in this city for at least four weeks. Mr. Poli has promised the local manager here that this theater will be the Mr. Poli has promised the local man-ager here that this theater will be the next one to get this wonderful act. AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The vaudeville offering at the Auditorium the first part of this week is meeting with great favor with the patrons of the house. A very clever bit of dramatic work is the playlet presented by Anna Jordan & Co. in Before the Play. The sketch is on the order of The Chorus Lady as portrayed by Rose Stahl. Miss Jordan's work as the chorus girl is a clever character portrayal. Those clever musicians, the Wood's Musical Trio, were insistently emoored at every performance, while Edith the Pony Drummer, caused great enthusiasm. Will F. Herbert, a neat appearing young chap, pleased with a bright line of songs and stories. A very clever character comedienne is Mae Melville, who handles several familiar impersonations in a style both miliar impersonations in a style both pleasing and original. Moving pic-tures, none of them ever seen here before, close a show well worth going to
